

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

TOBIA SACCHETTI,

Plaintiff,

-against-

WESTCHESTER DOC; WESTCHESTER COUNTY JAIL,

Defendants.

22-CV-4508 (LTS)

ORDER TO AMEND

LAURA TAYLOR SWAIN, Chief United States District Judge:

Plaintiff, who is currently a pretrial detainee at the Westchester County Jail, brings this pro se action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, alleging that Defendants violated his rights. He sues the Westchester County Department of Corrections (“DOC”) and the Westchester County Jail (“WCJ”), alleging that, after he was injured from an incident at the jail, he did not receive adequate medical care. Plaintiff seeks injunctive relief and monetary damages.

By order dated August 17, 2022, the Court granted Plaintiff’s request to proceed in forma pauperis (“IFP”), that is, without prepayment of fees.¹ For the reasons set forth below, the Court grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint within 60 days of the date of this order.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Prison Litigation Reform Act requires that federal courts screen complaints brought by prisoners who seek relief against a governmental entity or an officer or employee of a governmental entity. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(a). The Court must dismiss a prisoner’s IFP complaint, or any portion of the complaint, that is frivolous or malicious, fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, or seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. 28 U.S.C. §§ 1915(e)(2)(B), 1915A(b); see Abbas v. Dixon, 480 F.3d 636, 639 (2d Cir. 2007). The Court must also dismiss a complaint if the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h)(3).

While the law mandates dismissal on any of these grounds, the Court is obliged to construe pro se pleadings liberally, Harris v. Mills, 572 F.3d 66, 72 (2d Cir. 2009), and interpret them to raise the “strongest [claims] that they suggest,” Triestman v. Fed. Bureau of Prisons, 470 F.3d 471, 474 (2d Cir. 2006) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted, emphasis in original). But the “special solicitude” in pro se cases, id. at 475 (citation omitted), has its limits – to state a claim, pro se pleadings still must comply with Rule 8 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which requires a complaint to make a short and plain statement showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.

Rule 8 requires a complaint to include enough facts to state a claim for relief “that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). A claim is facially plausible if the plaintiff pleads enough factual detail to allow the Court to draw the inference that the defendant is liable for the alleged misconduct. In reviewing the complaint, the Court must accept all well-pleaded factual allegations as true. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009). But it does not have to accept as true “[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action,” which are essentially just legal conclusions. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. After separating legal conclusions from well-pleaded factual allegations, the Court must determine whether those facts make it plausible – not merely possible – that the pleader is entitled to relief. Id.

BACKGROUND

and hit Plaintiff on his left ear. A sergeant sent Plaintiff to the clinic, and the nurse at the clinic gave him some ear drops and said that everything was fine. The next day, however, Plaintiff had trouble with his hearing, and he returned to the clinic. He was again seen by a nurse, given ear drops, and was told that everything was fine. Plaintiff requested medical treatment three more times concerning his hearing, and received the same treatment each time, with the nurse telling him that everything is fine. Finally, when he could no longer hear in his left ear, Plaintiff again requested medical treatment, and this time, the nurse stated that he had “significant damage in [his] left ear.” (ECF 1, at 5.) Plaintiff then wrote to the clinic nurse requesting to see a doctor, but the jail’s clinic director refused. Plaintiff claims that he now has ringing in both ears and has lost the hearing in his left ear. (Id., at 6.)

DISCUSSION

A. Claims against Westchester Department of Corrections and the Westchester County Jail

Plaintiff’s claims against the DOC and the WCJ must be dismissed because city or county agencies, departments or facilities do not have the capacity to be sued under New York law.² See Omnipoint Commc’ns, Inc. v. Town of LaGrange, 658 F. Supp. 2d 539, 552 (S.D.N.Y. 2009) (“In New York, agencies of a municipality are not suable entities.”); Hall v. City of White Plains, 185 F. Supp. 2d 293, 303 (S.D.N.Y. 2002) (“Under New York law, departments which are merely administrative arms of a municipality do not have a legal identity separate and apart from the municipality and cannot sue or be sued.”); see also N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 2 (“The term ‘municipal corporation,’ as used in this chapter, includes only a county, town, city and village.”).

² Section 1983 also provides that an action may be maintained against a “person” who has deprived another of rights under the “Constitution and Laws.” 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Here, the WCJ, which is a facility, is not a “person” within the meaning of Section 1983. See Will v. Mich. Dep’t of State Police, 491 U.S. 58 (1989) (holding that a state agency is not a “person” for the purpose of § 1983 liability); Whitley v. Westchester Cnty. Corr. Fac. Admin., No. 97-CV-420 (SS), 1997 WL 659100, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 22, 1997) (noting that a correctional facility or jail is not a “person” within the meaning of Section 1983).

In light of Plaintiff’s pro se status and clear intention to assert claims against Westchester County, the Court construes the complaint as asserting claims against Westchester County, and directs the Clerk of Court to amend the caption of this action to replace the DOC and the WCJ with Westchester County. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 21. This amendment is without prejudice to any defenses Westchester County may wish to assert.

B. Deliberate indifference

Plaintiff is essentially asserting that correction officials and medical staff members at the WCJ were deliberately indifferent to conditions during his confinement that posed a serious threat to his health or safety, and that they failed to provide him adequate medical care. As Plaintiff was a pretrial detainee during the events giving rise to his claims, the claims arise under the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, rather than under the Eighth Amendment’s Cruel and Unusual Punishment Clause. See Darnell v. Pineiro, 849 F.3d 17, 29 (2d Cir. 2017). However, “a detainee’s rights [under the Fourteenth Amendment] are at least as great as the Eighth Amendment protections available to a convicted prisoner.” Id. (quoting City of Revere v. Massachusetts General Hosp., 463 U.S. 239, 244 (1983)).

To state such a conditions-of-confinement claim, a plaintiff must satisfy two elements: (1) an “objective” element, which requires a showing that the challenged conditions are sufficiently serious, and (2) a “mental” element, which requires a showing that a correction official acted with at least deliberate indifference to the challenged conditions. Id.

For the objective element, a pretrial detainee “must show that the conditions, either alone or in combination, pose an unreasonable risk of serious damage to his health” or safety, which “includes the risk of serious damage to ‘physical and mental soundness.’” Id. at 30 (citing Walker v. Schult, 717 F.3d 119, 125 (2d Cir. 2013), and quoting LaReau v. MacDougall, 473 F.2d 974, 978 (2d Cir. 1972)). “[P]rison officials violate the Constitution when they deprive an inmate of his basic human needs such as food, clothing, medical care, and safe and sanitary living conditions.” Walker, 717 F.3d at 125 (internal quotation marks omitted).

For the subjective element, a pretrial detainee must allege “that the defendant-official acted intentionally to impose the alleged condition, or recklessly failed to act with reasonable care to mitigate the risk that the condition posed to the pretrial detainee even though the defendant-official knew, or should have known, that the condition posed an excessive risk to health or safety.” Darnell, 849 F.3d at 35. The mere negligence of a correction official is not a basis for a claim of a federal constitutional violation under Section 1983. See Daniels v. Williams, 474 U.S. 327, 335-36 (1986); Davidson v. Cannon, 474 U.S. 344, 348 (1986).

1. Metal piece that fell and hit Plaintiff

Here, Plaintiff fails to state a viable condition-of-confinement claim with respect to the piece of metal that he alleges fell and hit him on his ear when the sprinkler system went off. He does not allege facts suggesting that any individual was aware or should have been aware of a specific risk of serious injury to him, and then failed to act with reasonable care to mitigate that risk. The Court therefore grants Plaintiff leave to amend this claim to provide more facts surrounding this incident, including facts indicating whether any individual was aware, or should have been aware, that there was a risk that a piece of metal would fall and harm him or others and did nothing.

2. Inadequate medical care

Plaintiff’s allegations concerning his medical treatment, however, suggest a viable constitutional claim for inadequate medical care. He alleges that after he sustained the injury to his ear, he repeatedly sought treatment at the facility's clinic, but was told that "everything was fine." (ECF 1, at 5.) After Plaintiff lost the hearing in his left ear, a nurse diagnosed him as having "significant damage," but the clinic director denied Plaintiff's request to see a doctor. (Id.) Plaintiff's assertions suggest that he had a serious medical condition that posed an unreasonable risk of serious damage to his health and he challenges the sufficiency of the care that he was given. Plaintiff also refers several times to seeing a nurse or multiple nurses at the facility's clinic, and he asserts that the clinic director denied his request to see a doctor. These allegations suggest that these individuals knew, or should have known, that the treatment he was given was insufficient and posed an excessive risk to his health or safety. Plaintiff does not, however, name any of those individuals as defendants.

The Court grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint naming as defendants any individual WCJ employees who he alleges were deliberately indifferent to his medical needs, including the nurses at the facility's clinic who failed to adequately treat him and the clinical director who refused him permission to see a doctor. If Plaintiff does not know their names, he may refer to them as "John Doe" or "Jane Doe," and should provide any identifying information he has, such as physical characteristics or badge numbers. Further, as explained below, if he wishes to pursue claims against Westchester County, he must also allege facts indicating that any deprivation of his rights was the result of a policy, custom or practice of the County.

C. Municipal liability

The Court, having substituted as a defendant Westchester County for the DOC and the WCJ, grants Plaintiff leave to state facts in support of any claim he seeks to bring against the County. A municipality or other local government may be liable under Section 1983 "if the governmental body itself 'subjects' a person to a deprivation of rights or 'causes' a person 'to be subjected' to such deprivation." Connick v. Thompson, 63 U.S. 51, 60 (2011) (quoting Monell v.

Dep't of Soc. Servs. of City of New York, 436 U.S. 658, 692 (1978)). A municipal organization is subject to liability where its “failure to train, or the policies or customs that it has sanctioned, led to an independent constitutional violation.” Segal v. City of New York, 459 F.3d 207, 219 (2d Cir. 2006) (citing Monell, 436 U.S. at 694). In other words, to state a Section 1983 claim against a municipality, the plaintiff must allege facts showing (1) the existence of a municipal policy, custom, or practice, and (2) that the policy, custom, or practice caused the violation of the plaintiff’s constitutional rights. See Jones v. Town of East Haven, 691 F.3d 72, 80 (2d Cir. 2012); Bd. of Cnty. Comm’rs of Bryan Cnty. v. Brown, 520 U.S. 397, 403 (1997) (internal citations omitted).

Here, Plaintiff fails to plead facts suggesting that Westchester County implemented a policy or adopted a custom or practice that caused the violation of his rights. He does not allege any facts suggesting that in furtherance of a policy, custom, or practice, either correction officers or medical staff at the WCJ violated his constitutional rights. The Court, however, grants Plaintiff leave to plead in the amended complaint a municipal liability claim against Westchester County. He must allege facts suggesting a constitutional violation, and that a County’s policy, custom, or practice caused the alleged deprivation.

LEAVE TO AMEND

Plaintiff proceeds in this matter without the benefit of an attorney. District courts generally should grant a self-represented plaintiff an opportunity to amend a complaint to cure its defects, unless amendment would be futile. See Hill v. Curcione, 657 F.3d 116, 123-24 (2d Cir. 2011); Salahuddin v. Cuomo, 861 F.2d 40, 42 (2d Cir. 1988). Indeed, the Second Circuit has cautioned that district courts “should not dismiss [a pro se complaint] without granting leave to amend at least once when a liberal reading of the complaint gives any indication that a valid claim might be stated.” Cuoco v. Moritsugu, 222 F.3d 99, 112 (2d Cir. 2000) (quoting Gomez v.

USAA Fed. Sav. Bank, 171 F.3d 794, 795 (2d Cir. 1999)). Because Plaintiff may be able to allege additional facts to state a valid inadequate medical care claim, the Court grants Plaintiff 60 days' leave to amend his complaint to detail his claims.

Plaintiff is granted leave to amend his complaint to provide more facts about his claims. First, Plaintiff must name as the defendant(s) in the caption³ and in the statement of claim those individuals who were allegedly involved in the deprivation of his federal rights. If Plaintiff does not know the name of a defendant, he may refer to that individual as "John Doe" or "Jane Doe"⁴ in both the caption and the body of the amended complaint.⁵

In the "Statement of Claim" section of the amended complaint form, Plaintiff must provide a short and plain statement of the relevant facts supporting each claim against each defendant. If Plaintiff has an address for any named defendant, Plaintiff must provide it. Plaintiff should include all of the information in the amended complaint that Plaintiff wants the Court to consider in deciding whether the amended complaint states a claim for relief. That information should include:

- a) the names and titles of all relevant people;

³ The caption is located on the front page of the complaint. Each individual defendant must be named in the caption. Plaintiff may attach additional pages if there is not enough space to list all of the defendants in the caption. If Plaintiff needs to attach an additional page to list all defendants, he should write "see attached list" on the first page of the amended complaint. Any defendants named in the caption must also be discussed in Plaintiff's statement of claim.

⁴ For example, a defendant may be identified as: "Correction Officer John Doe #1, on duty on August 31, 2022, at the Westchester County Jail, during the 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. shift."

⁵ The naming of John Doe defendants does not toll the three-year statute of limitations period governing this action and Plaintiff shall be responsible for ascertaining the true identity of any "John Doe" defendants and amending his complaint to include the identity of any "John Doe" defendants before the statute of limitations period expires. Should Plaintiff seek to add a new claim or party after the statute of limitations period has expired, he must meet the requirements of Rule 15(c) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

- b) a description of all relevant events, including what each defendant did or failed to do, the approximate date and time of each event, and the general location where each event occurred;
- c) a description of the injuries Plaintiff suffered; and
- d) the relief Plaintiff seeks, such as money damages, injunctive relief, or declaratory relief.

Essentially, Plaintiff's amended complaint should tell the Court: who violated his federally protected rights; how, when, and where such violations occurred; and why Plaintiff is entitled to relief.

Because Plaintiff's amended complaint will completely replace, not supplement, the original complaint, any facts or claims that Plaintiff wants to include from the original complaint must be repeated in the amended complaint.

CONCLUSION

The Court dismisses Plaintiff's claims against the Westchester County Department of Corrections and the Westchester County Jail and directs the Clerk of Court to add Westchester County as a defendant. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 21.

Plaintiff is granted leave to file an amended complaint that complies with the standards set forth above. Plaintiff must submit the amended complaint to this Court's Pro Se Intake Unit within sixty days of the date of this order, caption the document as an "Amended Complaint," and label the document with docket number 22-CV-4508 (LTS). An Amended Civil Rights Complaint form is attached to this order. No summons will issue at this time. If Plaintiff fails to comply within the time allowed, and he cannot show good cause to excuse such failure, the complaint will be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

The Court certifies under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(3) that any appeal from this order would not be taken in good faith, and therefore IFP status is denied for the purpose of an appeal. Cf.

Coppedge v. United States, 369 U.S. 438, 444-45 (1962) (holding that an appellant demonstrates good faith when he seeks review of a nonfrivolous issue).
